BELLERBY
MEMORIAL HALL
1914 - 1918

What you need to know to hire the Hall for meetings and events.

Bellerby is an attractive village situated approximately one mile to the North of Leyburn along the road leading to Catterick/Richmond. The village is famous for the large number of bridges in the village, and an even larger number of ducks. The Memorial Hall is available for hire by residents and non residents.

Hall Facilities

Furnishings consist of 20 tables (1.2m x 0.60m) which comfortably seat four, and 68 stacking chairs. There are four large tables (1.8m x 0.75m) suitable for serving buffet food.

The kitchen is equipped with one double drainer sink, a hand wash basin (both with hot water) an instantaneous water heater, and two kettles. There are three large teapots, cup & saucers, plates, glasses, bowls and cutlery. There is a four ring electric cooker.

The cloakroom areas have two women's cubicles, and two men's cubicles one of which is an accessible toilet.

The Hall is centrally heated with a gas boiler. The Hall does not have designated parking facilities although there is one disabled parking space outside the Hall gate. Users will need to park on the street, which occasionally will mean a short walk to the Hall. With the high standard of the building's décor it offers a clean and attractive venue for meetings and is a place to celebrate personal anniversaries besides accommodating organised events e.g. dances, table top sales etc..

About the Memorial Hall

Bellerby Memorial Hall was built in 1929-30 and dedicated initially to the memory of the seven men from the community who gave their lives in the Great War of 1914-18 and subsequently the names of a further three residents who were killed during the 1939-45 World War were added..

The Hall has undergone several improvements and re-furbishment schemes, notably an extension was built in 1980 incorporating new toilet block and store. In 2006 the Hall underwent a major refurbishment which involved the replacement of all the windows and internal and external redecoration.

The Hall is the public meeting place in the village and, and is the venue for a wide range of activities. Representatives of the village groups, clubs and churches and some elected officers form the Hall Committee. There are no paid employees so cleaning and minor maintenance is carried out by volunteers.

In addition to being the home to several local groups (click 'Activities' on the web site) the Memorial Hall is also available for hire by residents of Bellerby and individuals or groups from outside of the village.
