

Walk No. 3

From the tree, cross the road to the Cross Keys Inn, then walk along the pavement towards Richmond. At the bottom of Runs Bank just past the last house, go through a stone stile by the fingerpost on the your right. Keep strictly to the path in front of Wrens Cottage, a newly converted property and go through the next stone stile. Then, ignoring the stile in the bottom right hand corner leading to Mill Lane, head diagonally up the field to another stile half way up the wall/hedge ahead, to the left of the gate. Forward across the field until you reach a five bar gate, ignore the stone stile into the lower field. (Note this spot for your return).

Take the path through the gate into the upper field, cross diagonally to a stile in the middle of the wall above, then once through turn right across a narrow field to a stone stile in the top right hand corner. Through this stile turn right and continue for about 200 metres across this field to a small wall corner, then you will see the a wooden stile about 50 metres in front. From here head diagonally across the field (note the Medieval terraces, called 'Lynchets') towards a Copse (about 500 metres). Cross the stile at the bottom of the woods. Go up the hill through the woods on a faint footpath up to exit by another wooden stile. Turn left for about 50 metres then turn right across the field for about 200 metres to a fence corner, by a tree. Cross over a ditch, turn left and walk alongside the gill until you reach a gate in the corner. Cross the next field diagonally to a stile halfway up the wall opposite, then straight ahead over the last field, veering slightly to your right, to exit through a stone stile onto Barden Lane.

From the stile at Barden Lane, turn right for about 400 metres. Where Barden Lane curves to the left, follow the sign pointing down the hill onto a bridleway. After about 300 metres turn right along a farm road to Friar Ings. A few metres along climb the waymarked stile to the right of the farm road to enter the adjoining field and walk forwards to a wooden stile to exit by the side of the barn. Cross two fields (this can be a bit boggy) over wooden stiles on the North side of the farm buildings to the side of the beck. Cross the beck and keep forward along the bottom of the field to a stone stile. Straight ahead to another stile in the wall just above a barn, then drop down past a pond on your left to a gate and then a stile, passing a tree plantation on your right.

Cross the middle of the next field to a stone stile then across the top edge of the next two fields through stone stiles to the point where you rejoin the footpath you started on. From here retrace your steps through three fields to the foot of Runs Bank and back through the village to the green.
